APPEAL DENIED SCOTT TO HANG AT DAWN TODAY

(By Universal Service.)
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 23.—Russell Scott must hang in the Cook county jail at dawn tomorrow. Governor Len Small late today denied an eleventh hour appeal to grant Scott a further reprieve.

NEWMETHOD OF TRAFFIC COPS FOR SPEEDERS

In former days, motorists had merely to glance behind them to detect the approach of a speed cop. But now the traffic cops have a new method of catching speeders. They use a device called a "speed trap" which is a small box containing a clock and a camera. The clock is set to take a picture of a car at a certain speed. If the car is going too fast, the camera will take a picture of it. The picture is then developed and the car is identified.

OFTEDAHL IS NEW HEAD DRY FORCES IN CAL.

Two announcements of importance to wet and dry hit Federal circles with great suddenness today. First, A. C. Ofte Dahl, chief of the investigation unit of the Internal Revenue Department in San Francisco, was named as national chief of the mobile forces of the prohibition service.

The decision was announced following a four hours' consideration of the final defense plea by the Governor and members of the board of pardons and paroles. "It is the opinion of the board that nothing has been admitted which could justify the chief executive in interfering with the verdict of the jury," the report to the Governor said.

A mysterious absence of single incidents was seen on the roads of Contra Costa last night. The motorists, skimming along at 50 miles per hour, glanced behind them and saw nothing but double headlights. Serenity was the key-note of the occasion—until the first speed home was waved to the side of the highway by a broadly grinning motorcycle policeman whose headlights carried a set of double headlights.

Further revelations made today included the fact that Henry J. Heid, Southern Pacific ticket seller, 1229 Bay street, Alameda, was the man who is alleged to have introduced Jim Gough and Edwin P. Reeves, who are now said to have been the ringleaders in the merger scheme. According to Warren, this introduction took place two years ago, although Reeves sold stock to hundreds of persons upon the representation that he had known Gough for 23 years.

Open Season Is Cut Down Under New Game Laws

Charts showing changes in California game laws, enacted by the last legislature and effective yesterday, although their general import will be impressed more forcibly later on, have been received from the California Fish and Game Commission.

Not a few sports will gnash their teeth at the new regulations since they cut the length of open seasons considerably. The changes were deemed advisable to conserve game. The principal changes are:

"Freak" Is Term Applied To Her Claim of Wife

MARTINEZ, July 23.—Accusing her husband of calling her "a freak" applying vile epithets to her, and cursing and striking her, Mrs. Lulu A. Dumas today filed suit for divorce here against E. B. Dumas, Walnut Creek electrician. The couple have been married 17 years and have two daughters. Mrs. Dumas charges that her husband has remained from home all night without explanation and has also stayed from home a number of days at a time. She asks custody of the two children and an award of $100 monthly for support. They separated last February.

December will be the only open month for quail, valley desert and mountain. November, December and the first half of January heretofore constituted the open season. October will be the only open month for dove shooting. Previously two months, September and October were allowed hunters.

M. L. McNeill, of 3409 Waller avenue, sustained a scalp wound, and the rear end of his car was badly damaged last night, when it was struck by a machine driven by B. Henning, 5118 Nevin avenue. The accident occurred on San Pablo avenue, outside the city limits, according to police. How the collision occurred is not clear, but it is believed that Henning's car crashed into McNeill's from the rear.

Dr. Rose Powell treated McNeill's wound, which was not serious. The radiator and head-lights of Henning's machine were broken.

WILD ELEPHANTS

Governor Pinchot's warning against a coming gigantic power monopoly will cause no tremors of fear among well-informed people. He depicts what is mis-called super-power as a wild elephant which, with the power of nationwide concentration of capital, will trample the people under its hoofs and in the shape of exorbitant profits, will suck their lifeblood through its huge trunk. This would be awful if it were true or could become true, but the practice which he calls superpower, has already dispelled any dread that it will have such effect on this coast.

Superpower is one of the worst misnomers ever conceived, when the word is applied, as in the power industry. It is used to describe the connection of adjoining power systems and the sale of surplus energy by one to the other. By means of this interconnection the surplus of one district may be passed on until a shortage in a distant district is relieved. For example, between the Columbia river and the southern border of California the country is covered by about five companies, each independent of the others as to ownership, operation and management. No. 1 company on the north has a surplus of energy, which it cannot sell in its own territory. No. 5 on the south has a shortage on account of drought. It is impracticable to transfer the surplus of No. 1 to No. 5, but by interconnection No. 1 passes it to No. 2, which does not need it but passes an equal amount of its own energy to No. 3, which uses it to replace the same amount that it passes on to No. 4, and No. 4 thus is enabled to make good the shortage of No. 5.

Who is injured by this operation? Nobody. On the contrary many are greatly benefited. Sale of its surplus energy reduces the overhead cost of No. 1 and the price it must obtain among its own consumers in order to earn a fair return on its capital—overhead constituting 75 to 80 per cent of total cost of Hydro-electric power. Indirect purchase of that surplus by the method described, gives No. 5 opportunity to supply a broad market and its customers reliable service.

Interconnection of power systems does not mean consolidation. One sells energy to the other, but each retains its distinct identity, just as do two connected railroads. The Pinchot theory was demolished in advance by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in the following paragraph from an article in the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce News Bulletin:

"Interconnection does not imply capital consolidation or the building up of great trusts. It implies the sale and resale of power from one utility distribution system to another, and it implies co-operative action between utilities in the erection of central stations. It must embrace municipal plants as well as corporation plants. It implies no gigantic exploitation, for that is impossible under the state regulation of rates and profits."

Regulation is effective, for it has given the consumer the full benefit of economies made in the last twelve years. Though Mr. Pinchot said, "There is little or no reduction from war-time rates," the United States bureau of labor statistics says that rates for electric service are now eight and one-half per cent less than in 1913, while the price of commodities entering into the cost of living is 61 per cent higher. That wide difference represents the progress of the electric industry and the cash value of economies, which is put in the consumers' pockets by the vigilance of state commissions. It is not added to the profits of the companies.

The terrible monopoly which Mr. Pinchot sees is a fiction of an imagination fevered by many years' study of water power from a prejudiced viewpoint. The power industry is fully controlled by state commissions in forty-six states, and the companies cannot escape. Our chief concern should be to make regulations more efficient, by electing men qualified by education and experience as well as by character, to do justice between public utilities and the public. With such men, the size of the companies which serve the public will be of small consequence, for the commissions will tame any that tries to be a wild elephant.—Portland Oregonian.

JUDGE GETS QUICK ACTION

A gray haired old man came before Judge Arnold of the juvenile court in Chicago to ask for assistance for his wife and children.

"I lost my job at the International Harvester company because they say I'm too old," he said.

"You go back and try again," Judge Arnold suggested, raising an eyebrow at a jurymen who had been serving for a daily stipend of $3.

The old man later reported he had his job back. The juror was Harold F. McCormick, multi-millionaire, head of the harvester works.

Women (Ging Jealously to Their Sleeveless Frocks, Which Must Remain in Vogue.

DON'T imagine that just because the long-sleeved frock has made its appearance, sleeveless frocks are passe, or that they are found only on evening gowns. It is with sleevelessness as with the plain little untrimmed hat. These fashions were so dear to the hearts of the women who wear the clothes, that they would not give them up. To say that "really smart" women have given up frocks that show their entire arms would be wide of the mark, because many of them have held tenaciously to this fashion as have your little working girls up in the city.

In France many well-dressed women have been wearing ensemble suits consisting of sleeveless frocks with which are worn long-sleeved coats. These appeared at the races, where the coats were frequently laid aside, showing the arms quite bare save for short gloves and a series of bracelets.

The sleeveless blouse, likewise, maintains favor with the well-dressed French woman, who wears it under the smart little, scant little tailored suit that she dons in the

AS TO FOOTWEAR

The very sheer stockings which are now the rage in Paris have, they say, proved a boon to the taxi drivers. Every American and English visitor takes to them—the sheer stockings—but finds to her grief that they won't stand very much sightseeing because of their cobwebby sheerness. So rather than ruin the stockings or be forced to wear the more substantial sort she hails a taxi. Taxis apparently are cheaper in Paris than thin stockings. The Parisian who must be economical would save her sheer stockings for special occasions and wear cotton or linen for going about town.

Beige shoes with beige stockings are considered correct with black frocks in Paris at present, and are also worn with browns and dark blues and greens. Satin is considered quite inappropriate for street wear save when a satin frock or coat is worn. Crocodile, lizard and similar leathers are regarded as inappropriate for chiffon or silk frocks—being more suitable to the tailored suit or frock. To the French woman who can afford it, there is nothing better than kid shoes of the same shade as the frock.

APRICOT ICE CREAM

One quart of stewed apricots, one pint of water, one pound of sugar, one quart of cream, three tablespoons of maraschino, yolks of fourteen eggs.

Put the sugar and water on to boil five minutes, and skim. Beat the yolks of the eggs together until creamy, add to them the hot syrup, beat until the consistency of sponge-cake batter, add the cream and maraschino, and freeze. When frozen add the apricots pressed through a fine sieve, mix, repack and stand aside for two hours. Serve cut into blocks and place on small napkins.

No Need To Swat the Fly If You Keep Him Out

DO you remember that little rhyme which ran something like this?

Baby Bye, Here's a fly,
Let us watch him,
You and I,
See his pretty wings of silk,
Dipping in the baby's milk.

That was before the days of the "swat the fly" campaigns—before flies were considered anything more dangerous than summer pests, and when perhaps it was considered cruel to teach children to kill them. Now that we have learned better, we don't invite flies to take baths in baby's milk.

Swat the fly by all means when you can catch him. But there is a better way. Just keep him out. Most important of all, don't let him dip his wings in any of your food. Keep the house well screened, and the food well covered, and refuse to buy fresh foods that have been kept uncovered at the dealer's. In most cities it is against the city ordinances to keep foods uncovered on stands or counters.

There is one sure way of keeping the flies out of your food, and of knowing none have touched it since it was cooked and that is, buy canned foods. The canners are very particular about flies, and do just what this article is advising the housewife to do—keep them out. Canners employ not only screens, and revolving screens at that, but electric fans to keep the flies out. Naturally no flies can get into the food while it is cooking because it is cooked in the cans after they have been hermetically sealed.

A word to the wise housewife is sufficient. Take a leaf from the canners' book. Keep the place well screened, use electric fans to further insure flyless premises, and keep your food covered as far as possible while cooking as well as while it stands in the kitchen or on the table. Leave nothing round that might attract flies. Keep the ice box cleaned, and don't keep little bits of left-overs. One great advantage in canned foods is that the convenient size of the cans usually does away with left-overs. It is no sign of a good housekeeper to find the ice box full of bits of food left from meals to eat. The thrifty housekeeper plans better than that. Keep the garbage pail tightly covered, and cleanse it thoroughly after each emptying.

Be it known to all fans of the world that a baseball team that can't hit, can't win a ball game. And the Mechanics couldn't hit Buttisbach of the All Standards yesterday. Consequently they were beaten 3 to 1, but only after eight long hard stanzas.

To "Dutch" Kogler's credit it must be stated he pitched a fine game, but in a couple of instances he got himself all drenched up and was there fore charged with a defeat. There was the only one of his team who was able to find Buttisbach. He found him in the third inning for a homer over right field fence far up toward center field. This was the longest drive of the day, and incidentally the only hit Buttisbach allowed.

This was not such a pitcher's battle as the score would indicate, as only 7 strike out were made during the entire affair. The ball was slapped in every direction but just as soon as it was slapped, a fielder all of whom played errorless, ball was right there to do his stuff. Time and time again a promising young willow worker was neatly robbed of a safety by some brilliant field work. Huzefka, third baseman, and Nelson, center gardener, both of the winners, were the luminaries in the fielding events. Huzefka spiked a number of hot drives that nearly knocked him over, while Nelson brought the fans to their feet time and time again with brilliant running catches.

This work by these fellows did not reflect on their teammates or opponents however, as all showed themselves adept at the art of baseballing. Dutch Kogler had his fast ball breaking lovely. It was also breaking quick—too quick in fact for the official to see them. Bertoli, not a perpetual squawker, felt himself called up to severely reprimand Mr. Cavallini several times, with advice concerning optical illusions. Although Cavallini was no doubt playing on favorites, he called the ball before it had time to break over the plate.

Paddy O'Rourke was taken in from the outfield yesterday to fill a vacancy at short left by Lamarra who is on his vacation. He acquitted himself with honors. Put used to be a third sacker, and a good one, so he was not lost in the new position. Carson brought in the winning run, with a Texas Leaguer to center, with Thorsen on second. This was in the eighth inning, when the fans

Supply of Balls For One Season Costs $150,000

Speaking about the high cost of baseball, here is one from the National League headquarters. If a pitcher in the big league don't like the complexion of the ball he is using, out it goes. Turning this way, an average of 15 new balls are used to a game in this league. Computing the whole season and the price of each ball, the cost of ammunition during one season is in the very near neighborhood of $150,000. Quite a comfortable bit of spending money from the view point of one who is broke.

were getting excited. Carson himself scored on an infield hit by Gillispie, when an argument was taking place at first place as to whether or not Gillispie was safe. It was decided he was to the consternation of the Mechanics.

Roy Nelson showed a beautiful lack of judgment in the third inning. He was on first with Carson up. Carson hit a fly a few feet in the air, and Nelson dived for second. It was no trouble at all for Peppin to make the catch and throw him out at first, consuming the only double play of the game.

Again the fans were spared a long drawn-out slugfest. They were allowed to repair to their respective homes and families only 1 hour and 20 minutes after the bell rang for the beginning of the game. When it was considered that the game was eight innings short this was not so bad.

Helen Wills And Mary Browne Will Meet In Finals

(By Universal Service)

MANCHESTER BY THE SEA, Mass., July 23.—Miss Helen Wills and Miss Mary K. Browne, who their way today to the final round of the women's singles tennis tournament at Essex Country Club.

By a score of 6-2, 6-1, Miss Wills defeated Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup in the semi-final round today. Later Miss Browne defeated Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

It was the first time Miss Browne had defeated Mrs. Mallory since 1917 and both former national champions fought desperately for the decision. It was a match of long rallies where the service advantage seldom entered into the count. Both volleyed a backcourt driving attack first one, then the other making apparently impossible gets.

complete surprise to the large gallery of fans. Both boys were mixing in the center of the ring when Rosenberg caught Shea on the point of the chin and the latter crumpled to the canvas.

An Important Message to every friend and user of RICHFIELD GASOLINE

First, a sincere note of thanks to our loyal dealers and to the motoring public for the appreciation of Richfield's superior quality which has resulted in an almost phenomenal sales increase each month for this California gasoline—an increase that has far outstripped every competitor.

UNFORTUNATELY, the penalty of leadership is almost invariably evidenced by imitation and substitution. This is the case with Richfield today when thousands of motorists who believe they are buying genuine Richfield quality, actually receive a cheap, less powerful gasoline.

It always has been the policy of this company to aid the independent dealer wherever possible—to help increase his sales in every legitimate way. For we believe that the maintenance of the independent dealer means free competition in one of America's greatest industries, and that unless he is largely patronized, a virtual gasoline monopoly will result with attendant disaster to practically every consumer of gasoline and motor oil.

The majority of dealers sell Richfield gasoline, even at greater cost to themselves, because they know Richfield's better quality and tremendous popularity mean greater sales, and because they are sincere in their wish to sell you the finest motor fuel obtainable. This type of dealer would never think of substitution, and this announcement is for both your own and his protection.

A few dealers, however, have put Richfield in one pump only to utilize its popularity to bring more cars to their station—then, they substitute from another pump, a cheaper, inferior gasoline on which they make a greater profit.

In many instances, dealers of this type have actually added an extra length of hose to their other pumps to make substitution easier when a car drives in for Richfield gasoline.

How You Can Protect Yourself

Fortunately, it is easy to prevent substitution. It is illegal to mislabel any gasoline or oil container, and if you will remember to ask for Richfield by name and be certain your tank is filled from the pump marked "RICHFIELD GASOLINE", you will always assure yourself of genuine Richfield quality—mileage, speed and power combined!

Protect your motor and your purse
Ask for RICHFIELD by name and be sure your tank is filled from the RICHFIELD PUMP

If you have asked for Richfield gasoline at any dealers and have not received the extra power and mileage for which Richfield is noted, we would appreciate your sending the name and address of this dealer to the Richfield Oil Company in care of this paper.

TUBERCULOSIS OVERCOME

Oakland, Calif.
April 25, 1925.
For about three years I suffered from a bad cough and sore chest. I tried many doctors, all of whom pronounced my case Tuberculosis. My spit was examined and showed tubercular germs. As I found no improvement from any of the treatments that I took, I decided to give the FONG WAN HERB a test as a last resort. After having drunk the herbs for four months, I was a well woman and had gained in weight. A year has elapsed since I began to take the FONG WAN HERB on April 15, 1924, but today, I am still well and have no sign of my former complaints. (Signed) MRS. A. ACKERMAN, Fort Bragg, Calif. Attractive Features
Of New Nash Models

The introduction of the new models of the Nash special six and sedan is being put on display by the local dealer, Frank A. Schoen, this week, creating as much interest as in any other cities of the country. It is anticipated the factory will be kept running right and day to keep up with the demand for new cars.
Outstanding among the attractive features of the new special six series and advanced six series are the unique Nash Sedan body creations and the engineering refinements. The line includes eleven distinctive types of body styles, four on the special six chassis and seven on the advanced six line, each model fulfilling a specific requirement of the purchaser. The special six line offers a touring car, a roadster, a four-door sedan and a two-door sedan. The advanced six line includes a five-passenger touring car, seven-passenger touring car, roadster, two-door sedan, Victoria, four-door coupe and seven-passenger sedan. All models in both lines are equipped with forced feed engine lubrication, rear wheel brakes, 11 balloon tires and five Buick disc wheels.
The new special and advanced six five-passenger sedans have undergone remarkable refinement. The trunk platform at the rear has been eliminated and the body lengthened, thus adding to the roominess of the interior of these cars. This touring car with widened doors and forward-facing front seats, allows plenty of passageway for entrance and exit from the rear seat.
The front chair, now wider and deeper, is upholstered, and an added degree of comfort is provided by the new floor knobs which are adjustable so that passengers may regulate the tilt of the chair to their complete satisfaction. A dignified walnut moulding now frames the windows of the special and advanced six five-passenger sedans and imparts an additional note of richness to the interior. These models are now both equipped with dome lights of fine colonial pattern and with new type door latch and window lift, the

Kiwanis Club
To Be Guests
Of Rotarians

Members of the Richmond Rotary club will be hosts to the Kiwanis club at the Rotarians' weekly luncheon today, it is announced by C. C. Kratzer, Rotary president. A surprise speaker of the day is promised by the fellowship committee, which has charge of the program. A musical program to be rendered during the course of the luncheon is being arranged by Mrs. Irma Randolph, director of a musical conservatory. Grant Minor will be chairman of the day.
The committee in charge of the program consists of Aubrey Wilson, Rev. H. I. Oberholtzer, W. J. Richards, Jr., and Grant Minor.

Battle of 2 Boys
Involves Fathers

As a result of a fist fight staged in the Mira Vista district, W. H. Siemon, Standard Oil employee, has been arrested and faces a charge of battery. Siemon's opponent is said to have been A. H. Pearson also of Mira Vista.
It is alleged that the fight between the two men was the aftermath of a fight between their sons, Siemon claims that Pearson intervened when the boys were fighting and shook the Siemon boy. Siemon then entered the fray and it is reported that first began to fly between the two men.

NAGGING HUSBAND IS CAUSE OF DIVORCE

OAKLAND, July 23.—Claiming their six month marriage had been a failure, Mrs. Louise L. Butts today brought suit for divorce from Milton G. Butts, junior student at the University of California. The couple were married in Richmond on January 1, 1925.
Mrs. Butts declares in the complaint that her husband continually nagged her, and threatened to seek an annulment of the marriage.

No-Not Kidneys
Not a disease ~ Just clogging

A great many people are scared without reason. By a pain in the back, or highly-colored urine, or frequent urination. They fear kidney disease.
Try flushing the kidneys. Also relieve them by removing wastes and poisons in other ways. The kidneys often need help, just as the bowels do.
Drink plenty of water. Drink a glass or two before breakfast. To the morning glass add a little Jad Salts. That makes a sparkling and inviting drink.
Jad Salts is made from the acids of lemon and grape juice, combined with lithia. It is made to smear the organs of elimination in a harmless way.
Results usually appear in one hour. Poisons go, kidneys are relieved. Countless people correct conditions this way.
Try this method now. Give aid to the kidneys. It may save you endless worry and pain. Do this in justice to yourself. All druggists supply Jad Salts.

STUDENT POISONED
BY BOOTLEG BOOZE

BERKELEY, July 23.—Donald Farns, 19, a student, was in the Berkeley General hospital yesterday recovering from the effects of poisoned rum, while police were trying to ascertain the source of the bootleg liquor in Emeryville.
The youth was brought unconscious to Berkeley police headquarters early yesterday morning by friends. They said he had been poisoned by the liquor.
Farns was rushed to the hospital and a stomach pump applied. Later Dr. F. H. Van Tassel declared he could find no evidence of poison. Hospital reports branded the case as one of "excessive alcoholism."

FEATURES
WHICH OUT-CHRYSLER
PAST CHRYSLER RESULTS

Increased Power—Approximately 10 per cent more torque, giving 70 miles per hour with greater ease and quickness than ever before.
Greater Acceleration—5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, power enough to climb the steepest grades and pull through deepest mud or sand, from refined power plant with a crankshaft of 50 per cent greater torsional rigidity.
Remarkable Fuel Economy—Carburetion improved to deliver 20 and more miles per gallon of gasoline, notwithstanding increased power and acceleration.
No Vibration—Larger seven-bearing crankshaft and scientifically balanced rotating parts completely smooth out periodic vibration which ordinarily would result from increased power.
Still Easier Gear Shifting—Softer-operating clutch and larger transmission gears to compensate added power give still easier and smoother shifting.
Improved Rear Axle—Ring gears and pinions are larger, differential carrier heavier to handle increased engine power.
